Today's Gospel speaks about the farmer sowing the seed but not being aware of when and how tall it would grow. I am reminded of words written about Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was canonised by Pope Francis in 2018.

"We plant the seeds that one day will grow. We water seeds already planted, knowing that they hold future promise. We lay foundations that will need further development. We provide yeast that produces far beyond our capabilities. We cannot do everything, and there is a sense of liberation in realizing that."

I think that most of us are workers rather than master builders helping to create the kingdom of God in the world that we live in today. We should ask the Holy Spirit to assist us in our work.

Even small gestures on our part can make a big difference in spreading the Gospel whether it is by assisting others, taking time for prayer and reflection or getting involved in the life of our parish. People can be encouraged by the example of our lives and we must never underestimate how a good life, well lived can be a great example to people on their journey of faith.

Let us remember that the seed that we spread in our lives can bear fruit in ways beyond what we can ever imagine.
